Political Climate Changing

Decisions by legislators at the state and national level will have an effect on Andover representation in this year's state election.

Congressman Paul Tsongas who represents Andover in the Fifth Congressional District, is expected to announce his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senate today.

State Senator William Saltonstall, who represents Andover precincts 6, 7 and 8 on Beacon Hill, announced Tuesday he would not seek re-election at the end of his sixth two-year term this year.

The decisions are expected to produce considerable interest among candidates

Disposal of the former Abbot Academy property is a little further along, but far from firm, according to the business manager at Phillips Academy.

George Nielson, P.A.'s business manager said this week that trustees of the academy had selected one of seven proposed developers of the Abbot property, but there is nothing in terms of specifics.

Phillips acquired the Abbot property with the merger of the two schools a few years ago. As part of the overall plan of the Abbot property would ultimately be disposed of and trustees have been in the process of working out details of selling the property keeping in mind the interests of the town of Andover.

Neilson said the trustees had selected the firm of Life Care Services of Iowa as the potential developer of the Abbot property. The president of the firm is scheduled to meet with the business manager next week to initiate negotiations.

The proposed developer would use the property to develop a new concept in health care services. An individual buys into the complex and pays monthly costs. In return the individual is guaranteed life care. It is somewhat like a retirement-nursing home complex.

The concept is relatively new to New England, although there are some such developments in the Connecticut area. The Iowa firm is currently in negotiation with Babson College and property in Needham for such a development.

Formal Transfer

Town officials look on as Brother Louis J. Laperle, S. C., treasurer of Brothers of the Sacred Heart signs transfer of Sacred Heart property in Shawsheen to the town. The signing and purchase and sales agreements between the town and Crowninshield Corp., which will convert the building to apartments was formalized Monday afternoon.

Sacred Heart Property Finally Transferred

Conversion of the Sacred Heart school building to apartments is apparently ready to move ahead, with the formal signing of transfer of the property this week.

The town, which purchased the playfields and Cardinal Cushing gymnasium from the Brothers of the Sacred Heart also took title of the property this week.

The formal signing concludes four years of negotiation to dispose of the property after the Brothers closed the school due to declining enrollments.

The package, put together by the town's Industrial Development Commission results in Crowninshield Corp., a Peabody real estate development firm, converting the building to apartment use, retaining the exterior appearance. The town obtains the playfields along Balmoral and York streets and the gymnasium building on Haverhill street.

The town purchased its portion of the property for $350,000, with funds approved at town meeting a year ago. Crowninshield acquired the building for $330,000.

Work on converting the building is expected to get underway soon. Zoning board of appeals approval had to be obtained for the conversion of the building, the former American Woolen Co., administrative offices. Restrictions were placed on the proposed conversion of the building to protect the town and the Shawsheen area. There will be 87 units mostly single bedroom.

Atty. Lawrence J. Sullivan

Appointed To Finance Committee

Moderator James D. Doherty this week named Leo F. Griffin and Atty. Lawrence J. Sullivan to three year terms on the Finance Committee.

Griffin is a reappointment to a second three-year term, while Sullivan was named to replace Mrs. Virginia Cole whose term expired and her election as a selectmen makes her ineligible for reappointment.

Sullivan, who has been a member of the Industrial Development Commission, has resigned that post to accept the FinCom appointment.

Griffin, a resident of 268 River Road, is an auditor.

Doherty has another vacancy to fill on the FinCom, that of Dana Duxbury, whose term has expired and will be filled at a later date.

A photographic exhibit entitled "Visions of Andover — Downtown 1978" opened on Monday May 15 at the Malden Cooperative Bank in Andover. Conceived by the Land Use Committee of the League of Women Voters, the pictorial essay highlights some of downtown Andover's unique buildings, their architectural details, old and new adaptions, textures and rhythms of Main Street. The photographs are left untitled, providing exhibit-goers a chance to test their visual acumen.

The exhibit will be at the Malden Cooperative Bank through Saturday, May 20 then will be at the Arlington Trust Bank in Shawsheen Plaza for a week, May 22 through the 27 and at the Andover Savings Bank beginning Tuesday, May 30 through Sat. June 3.

The League was greatly aided by photographer Gregg Shupe, an Andover High School senior, who took the pictures, develolped and matted them, and helped mount the show. Gregg has been interested in photography since junior high school. He has exhibited his work in a number of local shows, been active in photography clubs, attended as a delegate the New England Camera Club convention for two years, and been yearbook photographer for Bancroft, East Junior high and high school. He is entering Rochesterr Institute of Technology in the fall with professional photography as a major.

Also helping the league with the show was David Markow of By Scout Troop 72. David built the four by eight foot display board on which the photos are mounted.

CBD In Pictures

A photographic exhibit done by Greg Shupe, will be on display in downtown banks beginning this week, through the efforts of the League of Women Voters Land Use committee. Here, Shupe is assisted in placing the photos by Sue Dennett, co-ordinator for the league.

Honored At Tufts

Ann Palmieri

Ann Palmieri, a January graduate of Tufts University, was the recipient of two awards at Tufts this spring.

Ann was one of 12 seniors chosen to receive a "Senior Award" which is given annually by the Tufts Alumni Association. The basis for selection is both academic and extracurricular. In addition, she was awarded the Class of 1911 Prize Scholarship which is given each year at the Academic Awards Ceremony. The award is given to a man and a woman in the senior class who has demonstrated outstanding academic performance over four years. Ann also received an academic award last year, the Wendell Phillips award, for high academic standing coupled with a high sense of public responsibility on the campus.

Ann participated in a wide variety of activities. She was a member of the Jackson Field Hockey Team and taught swimming and lifeguarded at Tufts' Hamilton Pool. She was one of three students asked by Provost McCarthy to sit on the Mellon Steering Committee. The committee was established after Tufts was awarded a grant of $200,000 by the Andrew Mellon foundation to study women role models. In her sophomore and junior years Ann was the Chairperson of the Tufts Community Union Senate. She was one of the youngest to serve in this capacity, and was the first woman. In her junior year she was the student speaker at the inauguration of the new president of Tufts, Dr. Jean Mayer.

In the spring of her junior year she was one of six students chosen to participate in the Tufts-In-Washington Program. While in Washington, Ann interned for the Government Liaison Office of the Chase Manhattan Bank.

In the fall of her senior year Ann was elected to the Committee on Student Life. The committee is comprised of seven students and ten faculty members. In addition, Ann was nominated by Tufts for a Rhodes Scholarship. Ann has been a Dean's List student and hopes to attend law school. Presently, she is temporarily employed by the Washington office of the Chase Manhattan Bank.

The daughter of Mrs. Edward Palmieri and the late Mr. Palmieri, 40 Enmore St., Andover, Ann earned a B.A. degree in the double major of English and political science.

Andover Handbook Updated

The Andover Town Handbook published by the League of Women Voters in 1974 is now available in a revised and updated version recognizing the many changes which have occurred between printings.

Along with obvious growth in population and financial figures has been the enlargement of precinct numbers and changing representation. Town meeting dates have changed. Passenger rail service is no longer available.

School population and finances have changed. The traditional program has been added to the elementary options and Chapter 766 of the state laws has specified or encouraged changes offered in special education.

Schools, such as Sacred Heart, are no longer on the scene; nor is the Andover Red Cross. Some facilities listed in the green center section are new, others had to be taken out.

New streets, noted by AVIS necessitated their publication of the 1978 AVIS trail map. AVIS has permitted the League to reproduce the town side of their map and that reduced version is founnd in the back of the book.

Nancy Mulvey has worked through the entire publication, first printed at the conclusion of her presidency of the league. The revised version, is now on sale at the Memorial Hall Library, Thompsons, Andover Bookstore, and Towne Book Fair.

Ed King will attend the party and will be available throughout the evening.

Tickets may be purchased from Cronin, Randazzo or any other member of the ticket committee.

King is the former Executive Director of Massport, and former President of the New England Council.

Professor Addresses Students

Professor Sol Gittleman, widely-known teacher, scholar, and lecturer, and chairman of the department of German and Russian at Tufts University, spoke to a combined class of German and Spanish students recently at Andover High on the increasing practical significance of foreign language study.

Professor Gittleman pointed out that most of the students accepted at Tufts this year have had at least three years of one foreign language and two years of another, thus stressing the importance of language study for admission to the college of one's choice. The trend of the 60s toward deemphasizing language requirements has definitely been reversed, he said.

Among the reasons cited by Professor Gittleman for studying foreign languages are (1) maximizing one's job opportunities, whether in private concerns, government work, or foreign service, (2) facilitating cross-cultural communication and understanding, and (3) simply to enjoy traveling abroad. The significance of each has become especially relevant in an age in which the world has grown so much "smaller." The number of American companies with brancch offices in other countries continues to swell, and vice versa.

Appointed Sloan Fellow

Richard J. Santagati

Andover resident Richard J. Santagati has been appointed an Alfred P. Sloan Fellow at Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Sloan School of Management.

Santagati is a general plant supervisor for New England Telephone.

The 12 month Sloan Fellows Program, which begins in June, leads to a master of science in management degree. The program, designed to broaden and develop outstanding young executives for senior management responsibilities, has been operating since 1931.

Young men and women from the United States and abroad — 32 to 38 years old and with 10 to 15 years of business experience — are nominated for the program both from the public and private sectors. Between 45 and 50 are selected each year by M.I.T. and designated Alfred P. Sloan Fellows.

Santagati is the eight Sloan Fellow appointed by New England Telephone since 1954 when the company first participated in the program.

Santagati was graduated from Merrimack College, North Andover, in 1965.

He joined New England Telephone that year as a supervisory assistant in Walpole, and later worked as traffic manager in Haverhill, Lawrence, Lowell, and Providence, R. I.

He was appointed to the public relations department from February until October 1971 when he went first to Framingham, then to Quincy as district plant manager.

He went to AT&T in September 1974 as manager-repair and returned to New England Telephone in November 1976 in his latest assignment.

He and his wife, the former Marilyn Murphy live at 3 Farmland Circle. They have three children: Karen, Susan and Ricky.

He is the son of Lydia R. Santagati and the late Charles S. Santagati of North Andover.

Andover ABC Is 10

More than 100 supporters, students and former graduates turned out Friday night for the 10th Anniversary celebration of Andover ABC at the Andover Country Club.

Special guests included Jim Simmons, above, first director of National ABC, who praised Andover for starting a program which has become a model for others, and wished it well for another decade to come.

Surprise entertainment included a dance by George LaBoo and Theresa Hunter, at left, who were subsequently joined by Simmons and other ABC'ers.

ABC, which has graduated 43 students from Andover High in the past 10 years, will launch its second 10 with a long-term fund-raising campaign.

Good Buys

Zucchini and yellow squash are also more reasonably priced and new potatoes, onions, asparagus, green beans, eggplant and radishes should be good May vegetable buys.

Fresh native rhubarb is a best fruit buy and strawberry prices are lower. Enjoy the good values in fresh grapefruit, lemons and also native apples while supplies are still available during May.

At meat counters, beef supplies are declining and prices edging upwards. Pork supplies are also showing a seasonal decline. Broiler-fryer marketings will be up 3 per cent over a year ago — and chicken and eggs will definitely be the best animal protein values during May.

Forest Insects

Insects contribute to the life of the forest in their own way even though many are harmful. Aside from being food for birds and toads, insects of the forest floor contribute to the process of decay which renews and fertilizes the soil.

Sheep Shearing Fest Set For Museum

The Old Center at North Andover will be the pastoral setting for an old-fashioned sheep shearing festival Sunday, May 21, the seventh annual celebration of spring sponsored by the Merrimack Valley Textile Museum.

A dozen sheep will be shorn by Chris Cerino of the 4-H Golden Fleece Club, Topsfield, and Bruce A. Clement from Keene, representing the New Hampshire cooperative extension service. Ed Senior of Lawrence, will demonstrate the sorting of fleece, the next step in the cloth-making process. Mr. Senior spent fifty years as a wool sorter for that city's textile industries. Greta Hellmer, of the museum teaching staff, will demonstrate methods of dyeing wool yarn using natural dyes.

The Museum's Bay State Spinning competition will begin at 1:30. Hand spinners nominated by cultural and historical agencies from across Massachusetts will represent their towns, and compete for cash prizes. Spinners provide their own wheels and wool and prizes are awarded to the spinsters who can produce the greatest length of yarn on the walking wheel in one hour. Those using the saxony wheel will race to produce the longest length of spun yarn in half an hour.

Pre-registered hand spinners and weavers are invited to sell their quality products at the crafts sale. Fabrics, articles of clothing, decorative wall-hangings and homespun, as well as knitted and crocheted items will all be available for purchase. Participating artisans will include members of the Essex County Weavers Guild, the Boston Weavers Guild, Boston Area Spinners and Dyers, and the New Hampshire Weavers Guild.

To add to the festivities, live music will be provided by Scott Crichton of Acworth, N. H. A self-professed music engineer, skilled in playing mandolin, dulcimer and autoharp as well as guitar, Crichton will entertain visitors with representative folk songs expressing the role of labor in American History, particularly dealing with the textile industry.

Admission fees include a tour of the Merrimack Valley Textile Museum across the street from the common on Massachusetts Avenue. Guides will demonstrate the various processes of cloth making from the craft of hand spiinning and weaving to the technology of 19th century machinery.

On Dean's List

Three Andover residents have been named to the Dean's List at Suffolk University for the fall semester. They are Paula J. Eldridge, 29 High St.; Keith W. Kauppila and Thomas A. Servillo, 1 Hawthorne Circle.

The average well-fed adult uses energy nearly equal to a steadily burning 100-watt light bulb, according to Massachusetts Audubon.

Collatos To Head Commission

Charles Collatos, School Street, Andover, was sworn in by Governor Dukakis Wednesday, to chair the World War II, Korean Emergency, Vietnam Conflict Memorial Commission.

The Commission operates, updates and maintains war memorials on the mothballed battleship Massachusetts and the destroyer, Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., which are now moored in Fall River and which are visited by some 17,500 adults and school children each year.

Collatos, who serves as Commissioner of Veterans' Services for the state, has served on the three-member memorial commission for six years.

The World War II memorial now lists some 13,000 names, while the Korean-Vietnam memorial lists 4,500, he said.

Missionary Program At Church

On Sunday May 21 at 7 p.m. Andover Baptist Church will hold an evening service featuring Melissa Baldwin. While still in high school, Melissa, a resident of Andover, and her cousin, Rebecca Baldwin of Wilmington, visited Kenya as missionaries with the Ambassadors In Missions organization. They were there as short term missionaries, having the opportunity to be exposed to the work of missionaries and to support them in their work and outreach.

Now a sophomore at Central Bible College in Missouri, Melissa is preparing to go into missionary work full time. As part of her training Melissa has worrked in puppetry in order to bring the word of God to both children and adults in an entertaining way.

On Sunday evening Melissa will present a program that will appeal to the entire family. She will show slides of her visit to Kenya and talk about the missionary work there, and also give a message using her puppets.

Under the guidance of Troop Leader, Terry Lewandowski, the Brownies visited the New England Telephone Operation Center in Lawrence, had a memorable experience with the residents of a nearby Nursing Home and visited a Lowell radio station.

In addition, Troop 76 undertook many special projects, some of which were: making cookies, sewing their own aprons, putting together sewing boxes, participating in a Play Day at Andover's Girl Scout Camp, and learning how to create an attractive centerpiece. The Language of Flowers

by Gerry Trull

Aside from wine, probably little else from the natural world is méntioned as much in the Bible or literature as flowers. Various flowers have come to represent moods or sentiments, often meaning different things at different times. Roses usually mean passion, but could be a mourning flower when white. Lillies are a celebration of spring and hope, but a reminder of Christ's death. Poppies now remind many of crosses in Flander's Field. Orchids mean proms and young love. Daffodils mean sun and warmth and life. More than anything else, flowers represent the range and beauty of human emotions.

Express your sentiments with flowers from TRULL'S MILL HILL FLOWER CENTER, 411 River Rd., 851-6161; you don't need a special occasion to show that you care. Flowers are always a much appreciated and warmly received expression of your feelings and are the perfect tribute to your loved ones on Memorial Day. Stop by and see our fine selections. Hours: 9-5:30 Mon-Sat.

Ready For Clown Town

Clown Town Is Saturday

Regardless of the weather, Saturday, May 20, is the big day for the Andona Society's "Clown Town." Members have been preparing for a year now for the annual extravaganza which will be held at the Andover Playstead from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

General Chairmen Sue Daily, Elke Kappeler, and Nancy McBride announce that all is in readiness, games, rides, amusements, refreshments, hats and puppets and the big show. This year's main attraction is a musical adaptation of "Hansel and Gretel" called "The Bad Children." This will be presented by the Andover Community Theatre in the East Junior High Auditorium at 11 a.m., 12:30 p.m. and 2 p.m.

Student Art

Not many college art students have their paintings hung in a prestigious museum. But 21 art students from Salem State College, Lowell University and the Montserrat School of Visual Art have been chosen to display their paintings at the Peabody Museum of Salem. The Museum's own paintings include examples of work by such renowned artists as Salmon, Roux Corne and Chinnery, among others.

In offering this opportunity to North Shore college students, the Museum hopes to show its support for artists of the future, as well as the past. The exhibit will continue through May 18.

We suggest help for some of the following: cleaning basement, garage or attic, yard work, washwax car, rake leaves, wash windows, babysit, etc.

The proceeds from this day's work will be ussed to help defray the cost of sending leaders to the Northeast Region Leaders' School for a week of fellowship and training.

Town Again Faced With Problem Of Revaluation

The problem or revaluation is before the town once again, with the court rejecting a plea by several Massachusetts communities to overturn a ruling by the state which ordered imposition of an equalization program.

Andover was among the communities cited by the state department of corporations and taxation and ordered to revalue. Three consecutive town meetings in the past year have rejected appropriating funds for the project.

Town Manager Jared S. A. Clark said Wednesday that the court decision was an anticipated development and that he now will make every effort to protect the town's interest should revaluation be ordered.

"I don't want the state to come in and conduct a revaluation program, then bill us," Clark said.

Among recommendations he is anticipating making to selectmen in the near future is placing the revaluation proposal back on the October town meeting warrant or even calling for a special town meeting to consider the matter, in view of the court action this week.

He would then try to get the state department of corporations and taxation to stay the court order to permit the town to vote on the matter again.

Clark feels that the vote of the last town meeting should be examined to determine if rejection of the funds was based on the fact the town doesn't want revaluation, or because there were other issues involved, such as the state mandate, which caused the voters to defeat the measure.

The manager said he would like to avoid paying a high price for revaluation. With the demand caused by the court order, appraisal firms will be scarve and costly, Clark points out.

If the town has to go to a revaluation program, the manager would like it to be on a computerized basis.

This would allow updating on either and annual or biannual basis. While a computerized system would be a little more costly at the outset, it will represent savings in the long run and provide important data for the town's planning processes.

The updating process would allow for more accuracy in the maintenance of assessor's records.

Information which would come from a computerized operation could provide the town with such planning data as identifying where new growth is occuring, where school populations are concentrated, even used in identification of various types of properties and locating of crime statistics.

Protection of the town's interests in the revaluation issue, Clark feels is most important now, since expenditure for such services by the state could prove very costly and not provide the town with the information most desirable.

Tops In Class At Colby

In one sense, James J. DeYoreo is what liberal arts education is all about.

The Colby College senior from Andover, will graduate first in his class and will be class marshal at the college's 157th commencement exercises on Sunday, May 28.

The physics major earned the distinction by having the highest cumulative grade-point-average among his classmates.

DeYoreo entered Colby intending to study government and history. To fullfill a science requirement, however, he added a course in astronomy to his freshman schedule. Finding the subject challenging and fascinating, he decided to switch to the study of physics.

Today, after four years, DeYoreo, a graduate of St. John's Preparatory School in Danvers, has hopes of having an article published in the prestigious Astrophysical Journal. He also will begin graduate studies next year in theoretical physics at Cornell University, a leading institution in the field.

DeYoreo's article, which might be published this summer, is the outgrowth of research he did in 1977 at a special summer program at Dartmouth College, funded by a National Science Foundation grant. He collaborated with Professor Alan Karp, professor of physics and astronomy at Dartmouth.

One of five selected for the program in astrophysics, DeYoreo recalls he learned about it from a notice on a Colby bulletin board. "I guess it pays to look at those flyers that say 'Great Opportunity for Summer Research,' " he remarks.

Addressing a problem that has vexed astrophysicists for many years, his 20-page paper proposes an answer to why pulsating stars, or cepheids, in the Small Magellanic Cloud (SMC) appear to behave differently from those within the earth's galaxy, which the SMC orbits.

DeYoreo's paper says the seeming difference is really a matter of perception.

"If my theory proves to be true," says DeYoreo, "astrophysicists will be very happy. It would relieve them of a nagging irritation."

DeYoreo explains that pulsating stars are affected by companion stars that are not distinguishable, because of the great distances involved, and appear to be part of the pulsating star. He theorizes that the discrepancy in apparent behavior is caused by the greater number of companion stars that are associated with the SMC's cepheids when observed from the earth's field of vision.

While there have been other explanations for the phenomenon, including contentions that the pulsating stars in the two galaxies are different in composition, none has proved satisfactory, notes DeYoreo.

"I conclude," he says, "that SMC cepheids are essentially the same as those of our galaxy but that the data on SMC's are contaminated by the bright stars in the field of view."

DeYoreo's work last summer also involved cataloguing and developing predictive models of combinations of cepheids and companion stars. "The inventory will help astronomers and astrophysicists determine quickly whether a pulsating star has a companion or is a single star," explains DeYoreo.

DeYoreo was elected to Phi Beta Kappa at Colby in his junior year and has been a Julius Seelye Bixler Scholar for the past two years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore DeYoreo of 41 Bartlet Street.

Community Services Dept. Eyed

Some limited reorganization of the Recreation Community School department is anticipated by Town Manager Jared S. A. Clark.

The manager has been meeting with the R/CS committee and the council on aging, among other groups in an effort to improve the reporting process and direction of the activities.

Clark said he anticipates no new personnel in the proposed reorganization into what may become a department of community services.

His discussion to date with the R/Cs committee and council on aging have been directed toward implementation of the department programs and activities. Additional discussions are to be held with the school committee and veterans agent.

At the moment, Clark sees as a recommendation the establishment of the department of community services to be headed by a director, but not providing for an additional person. The position would probably replace the Recreation/Community Schools director, which was vacated last year by Gary Ralph.

Other prsonos now on board, such as the director of elder affairs, veterans agent, and assistant recreation director, would report to the department administrator.

There would still be a council on aging but its work would probably be affiliated with a new committee such as the committee on community services.

The overall reorganization is still in the thought stages, Clark said. It will be reviewed further by all concerned for evaluation and comment before he ultimately presents a firm proposal.

Construction Schedule Set

A schedule which would result in the voters at the town meeting in April 1979 being presented proposals for new school construction has been established by the town manager and superintendent of schools.

Appointment of the building committee is expected to be made in early June. Town Manager Jared S. A. Clark, who is responsible for all new construction, said this week, he intends to present to the selectmen for confirmation, names of committee members at the June 12 meeting.

Clark met with Supt. of Schools Kenneth R. Seifert last Friday to go over a schedule for proposed renovation and addition to East Junior High, some renovation at West Junior and Andover High school and construction of an auditorium-classroom building at the Shawsheen road campus area.

Following appointment of the building committee, selection of architect will be the first priority, according to the schedule agreed upon.

Development and review of educational specifications will follow, the preliminary cost estimates obtained.

If cost estimates exceed the proposed $10 million level, the revision of the plans will be made to remain within the limits as indicated by the town meeting vote which approved the planning funds a month ago.

Development of final plans with accompanying approval by the building committee and school committee, along with review by selectmen and all town boards to produce an understanding, will precede a call for bids on the project.

Preparation will then be made to present the proposal to the 1979 town meeting ,then, with voter approval, will be presented to the building committee which will oversee the actual construction processes.

Clark has begun interviews with candidates for appointment to the building committee and is interested in still receiving names of persons who may wish to be named. Anyone interested should submit a resume of their experience and indicate why they would be interested in serving.

Additional interviews will be conducted over the next two weeks prior to making the appointment.

The Political Season

Election year prospects are bright and interesting in view of developments this week.

State and national offices will be up for voter consideration in the fall, and based on activity of this past week, the campaign season will be a most active one and definitely have some Andover area overtones.

Congressman Paul Tsongas who represents Andover is expected to announce today that he will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate.

This, of course, will open up the quest for Tsongas' fifth district post which he has held since defeating Paul W. Cronin in 1974.

Also, State Senator William Saltonstall has announced this week that he will not seek re-election. Saltonstall served Andover voters in precincts 6, 7 and 8.

As these announcements are made, the rumor mill stirs up the candidacies of others in the immediate area, all of which probably is a testing of the waters at this point.

The Tsongas decision is an interesting one.

He announced his intent after Lt. Gov. Thomas O'Neill decided to remain as a candidate for his present post.

As the field stands at the moment, one would assume that Tsongas would probably be successful in his bid for the Democratic nomination.

But there is an additional consideration.

Tsongas, and others who had considered the run for the U. S. senate, probably base their campaign on opposing Senator Edward Brooke.

But, Brooke does not appear to be a shoo-in as the Republican candidate in the November election. He faces, what we must assume, is a difficult primary fight against Avi Nelson, a conservative.

Brooke was not overwhelmingly received at the Republican state convention and Nelson supporters have not only been encouraged by the actions of the delegates, but appear to be gaining some backing for the primary fight.

Should Nelson be successful, then the Democrat nominee would face a different type campaign.

From all appearances at this stage of the 1978 campaign, it looks like a difficult year for incumbents.

In the sixth congressional district, Congressman Michael Harrington would seem to face a difficult battle in winning renomination.

If successful there he will face William Bronson, who made a good run against Harrington last time out and who will be receiving considerable GOP support this time around.

Add the effect of the reduction in the size of the state legislature, and one can assume that this will be an active political season in Massachusetts this year with little lack of activity anticipated until they begin counting the votes Nov. 7.

The Public Forum

Commendable

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

I have just returned from a trip to Washington and Philadelphia, where I had the privilege of chaperoning ninety members of the Andover High School Chorale, Handbell Choir, A Cappela Choir and Madrigal Singers.

In a time when so many degrogatory stories are written about teenagers, I believe the people of Andover should know that these students were not only well behaved and talented, but were a tremendous credit to the Town of Andover. Each and every student deserves our congratulations for making every effort to conduct themselves as we, as parents, would wish.

The high quality of their concerts and behavior must be credited to the respect and affection which these students hold for Mr. Keith Gould, Choir Director at Andover High School. His direction and leadership was apparent during every portion of this trip.

And finally a very sincere thank you must be publicly given to the Choral Parents Association and the special Committee who gave so much of their time and effort in not only running fund raising events to help the students with expenses, but in arranging the trip with every safety precaution and detail planned to perfection.

Congratulations and open praise are due the Andover High School Choir Department and the Parents Association, but above all to the students who participated in this outstanding educational experience and concert tour.

An Open Letter to:
Miss Lilly Hines
195 River Road
Andover, MA 01810

Dear Lilly,

One of the happiest stories heard on Sunday, April 30 was that at 195 River Road a young lady was thoughtful enough to set out a free lemonade stand for teachers and students who were making the 12 mile ride in the Andover Ride-A-Bike event. The riders told me how welcome the refreshment was, especially since the long, hard climb up "Heartbreak Hill" begins just beyond your home!

I'm sure you know that this Ride-A-Bike benefits Massachusetts' retarded citizens. I'd like you to also realize that your contribution was just as meaningful as that of all the other people who participated that day.

As co-ordinator of Andover's Ride-A-Bike, I would like to thank you for your unselfishness in behalf of the Massachusetts Association of Retarded Citizens and the Andover Education Association.

Cure For Dust

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

Ever since the work on the reconstruction of Elm Street started in April the people who live in this area have been plagued with dust from the dirt left along the road. We really are the victims of awful dust storms — dust stirred up by cars, dust raised by the winds and blown all over the neighborhoods. When the warm days come people around here will have to keep their windows shut unless they want their homes filled with dirt.

I was in the Boston Public Gardens recently and saw an International truck with the name "Transit Seeding, Mansfield, Mass." on it. There was a large tank on the truck filled with water and the truck went along the walks watering newly seeded or sodded areas. The hose shot a stream of water seventy-five feet or more.

Now I suggest that either Andover or those doing the work buy or rent such a rig and regularly wet that dirt and thereby keep our street and homes free from dust.

WEEKLY SPECIAL

Who Runs U.S. Foreign Policy, Carter Asks: Carter or Begin?

WASHINGTON – President Carter's relations with the Jewish community have never been lower. Sen. Lowell Weicker, R.-Conn., received a standing ovation when he attacked Carter's Middle East policy last week at the American-Israel Public Affairs dinner.

White House counsel Robert Lipshutz had earlier declined an invitation to the dinner. But press secretary Jody Powell heard that Weicker planned to attack Carter and got an advance copy of the Senator's speech. Then the White House speech writers drafted a rebuttal.

Lipshutz sent word that he would attend the dinner after all and also requested permission to speak. So his name was added to the guest list at the last minute and he was allowed to respond to Weicker. Lipshutz read the White House rebuttal. But he was hissed and hooted by the angry crowd.

Back at the White House, President Carter is quietly sizzling. Sources close to the president tell us he is furious at the Israelis for openly challenging him on Capitol Hill.

Carter fumed privately that no other foreign nation would dare to oppose U.S. foreign policy in the halls of Congress. He angrily asked subordinates whether the president or the Israeli prime minister is in charge of U.S. foreign policy.

Profits of Crime: "Son of Sam" David Berkowitz, pleaded guilty last week to the nighttime killing of six women. The murders brought terror to New York City and triggered the biggest manhunt in the city's history.

The exclusive book rights to his story are now being peddled to New York publishing houses. The asking price has reached $200,000.

After Berkowitz's arrest, a special New York law was passed requiring that all profits received by a convicted criminal for selling his story must go to a special fund for compensating victims of the crime.

Berkowitz's affairs are being handled by his father, Nathan Berkowitz, who said he has no intention of enriching himself from the tragedy of others. One of his attorneys also told us that the book earnings will go to the victims. But sources on publishing row believe some of the Berkowitz lawyers are trying to divert part of the prospective money into their own pockets.

Random House was one of the publishing houses approached. There, a Berkowitz attorney suggested using proceeds from the book to pay legal fees. The Random House representative, Robert Cowley, told my staff: "The more I began to find out about the deal, the more rotten it seemed."

A distinguished writer, Robert Lipsyte, was lined up to write the book. He hoped to write a meaningful book about the bizarre crimes and intended to interview Berkowitz's attorneys at length.

But a representative of the sales team tried to stipulate that the lawyers would be paid their standard legal fees for every hour of interviewing. The money, of course, would be subtracted from the proceeds that should go to the victims.

The disgusted Lipsyte withdrew from the project. So did Random House. Said Lipsyte: "They were trying to find a way to siphon the money off."

The book profits would be administered by the New York Crime Victim Compensation Board. A board attorney said: "The ethics of an attorney selling conversations or information about his client seems highly questionable."

Meanwhile, the legal emissaries for "Son of Sam" have tried to hawk the exclusive book rights to two other prominent publishing firms – Doubleday and Simon and Shuster. Both companies refused to touch the deal because of the sordid subject.

Strauss' Flights: You will be hearing more in the future about Robert Strauss. Ostensibly, he's our special trade ambassador. But he has become a power behind the scenes at the White House. President Carter seldom makes a move without consulting Strauss.

Strauss also flies all over the world on special assignments. The president has ordered his subordinates to fly tourist class. But Strauss submitted vouchers for first-class travel. When a budget officer advised him that government regulations prohibited this, Strauss retorted that he always flies first class, and he plans to continue doing so.

Strauss' infraction was reported to his superior. Back came word from the Oval Office: "Give Strauss anything he wants."

Shah's Censorship: There's rioting in Iran where the shah is the absolute monarch. He is driven by visions of glory and dreams of empire. The neighboring Saudi Arabians have warned Washington secretly that the shah is "a megalomaniac" and "highly unstable mentally." Those are quotes from the secret dispatch.

We have previously reported how the shah tried to shut down an anti-shah newspaper in the United States. It's called the Iran Free Press, and it's still being published.

Now we've learned that the shah has also tried to stop criticism of him in the Turkish press. A few days before one of our associates arrived in Turkey on a reporting assignment, a Turkish newspaper published a harshly critical article about the shah.

The Iranian government immediately filed a complaint and asked the Turkish government to censor anti-shah stories in the future. A Turkish official told us: "How do you explain to a ruler like the shah that Turkey is a free country with a free press?"

On The Soccer Fields

By She Livermore

Mother's Day probably had some effect on the results this week, as a large majority of Andover teams won victories in and out of town. The teams who lost were generally outclassed but they all played spirited games for their spectator mums. Brief results of the games follow:

Ravens 2, Saugus Vultures 3

Condors 4, Owls 0

The Condors came on strong against the Owls, who played a spirited game but could not quite overcome the Condors' strong offensive tactics which enabled them to score four goals for the win. Goals scored by Chris Gully, Jamie O'Brien and Jeff Smith. Outstanding Booters: Adam Smith, David Penney, Rick Starkweather and Geoff Boland (Condors), as well as Matthew DellaCroce, Bryan Poisson and Danny O'Brien (Owls).

FOR $6645* YOU CAN BUY A CHEAP CAR. OR AN EXPENSIVE ONE.

It's no longer true that you get what you pay for.
At least, it isn't true among the 1978 models.
That's because—for about the same money—you can become the disappointed owner of a cheaply made car or the satisfied owner of one that's well made.
Luckily, the cheap ones can give themselves away to anybody who bothers to look closely. Doors, hood and trunk lid don't fit properly. The paint job is dribbled in some places, spotty in others (especially on top of the hood). The trunk is a wasteland of raw, unfinished surfaces. Rattles are constant companions.
Volvos, on the other hand, are known for being solidly built and painstakingly finished. And Volvo owners confirm it. In a recent independent national survey, a significantly higher percentage of owners of new Volvos rated their cars "excellent" in terms of overall quality of workmanship than did the owners of all 57 American makes surveyed†
The amazing thing is that, for the price of many of the cheap cars, you can own an expensively built, well-equipped Volvo...the 1978 Volvo 242 in a dealer's showroom near you.
Why settle for less when the price is no more?
VOLVO
*Suggested retail price P.O.E. for the Volvo 242, local taxes, dealer preparation, delivery charges and "Lambda Sond"™ emission control system additional. †Survey of owners of new cars bought in May, 1977.

Named National Coach Of Year

Sid Watson

Sidney J. (Sid) Watson, who ignored predictions of disaster in all the preseason polls and guided his 1977-78 Bowdoin College hockey team to the ECAC Division II East championship, has been named as National College Division Coach of the Year.

His election — the third time since 1970 that his colleagues have honored him as the country's top small college coach — was announced here at the annual banquet of the American Hockey Coaches Assn.

Although hockey writers and coaches consigned Watson's squad to third place and lower in their annual poolls because the Polar Bears lost 14 lettermen to graduation, Bowdoin staged a Cinderella season climaxedc by a 3-0 victory over defending champion Merrimack for the ECAC Division II East title.

The win — Bowdoin's second triumph of the year over Merrimack — gave the Polar Bears a Division II record of 16-3-1 and an overall record of 19-6-1.

In his 19 seasons at Bowdoin, Watson has compiled an impressive overall record of 256 wins, 156 losses and 8 ties.

He was chosen as the first National College Division Coach of the Year in 1970 and received that honor again the following year. Recipients of this award are presented with the Edward Jeremiach Memorial Trophy, named in memory of the late Dartmouth College coach.

A native of Andover, and a former Northeastern University sports standout, Watson joined the Bowdoin athletic staff in 1959 after a distinguished professional football career as a halfback with the Pittsburgh Steelers and Washington Redskins.

A former president of the American Hockey Coaches Assn., he has also served as a member of the NCAA Ice Hockey Rules and Tournament Committee.

Jobs Open On River Cleanup

As was recently reported the Andover Village Improvement Society (AVIS) received a grant for a Shawsheen River reclamation and recovery project. The administrator of this project is Michael Peltz who is also the AVIS warden for the Vale Reservation.

Work will begin in early June and will consist of removing debris, overhanging trees, tree stumps, etc. from the river.

People who like to work outdoors, during the summer months (June, July, August) and who are eligible for CETA employment may contact the CETA office in Lawrence, at 577 Common St., and request referral to the AVIS project. CETA workers will be paid the prevailing wages of the community and will be covered by workmen's compensation.

Racers who put in so much time and effort in securing points at the league Championships, held in Waltham include Kathleen Farrell, Donald Salmen, Katie Walsh, Kathy Quintaliania, Debbie Brooks, Susan Quintaliania, Mike Gerardi, Dan Poore, Mark Reed, Rene Hess and David Catania. Other racers who participated included: Lynn Bobeck, Donna Brooks, Terry Retelle, Robbie Retelle, Donna Comeau, Nicole Catania, Brian Comeau, Eric Poore, Robert Brown, Tim Croteau, Tom Farrell, Carol Reed, Larry Major, John Donesian, and Steve Rossi.

Seeded positions on the Massachusetts Championship team competing in the New England Championships at Pats Peak were filled by Brian Comeau, Robbie Retelle, Robert Brown, Davie Catania, Mike Gerardi, Kathy Quintaliani, Susan Quintaliani, Nicole Catania, Donna Comeau, Katie Walsh, Debby Brooks and Laureen Kinsella. Each of these racers helped make a third place finish for the Massachusetts team against the stiffest competition of the year from New York, N. H., Conn., Vermont, and Rhode Island.

The team roster last year included 65 racers from 44 families in the Merrimack Valley including Andover, North Andover, Lawrence, Methuen, Salem and Pelham, N. H. It is the objective of the ski club to give every boy and girl with a desire to race that opportunity. Any interested families in the area should contact Joanne Kinsella of Methuen, who is the membership Chairperson.

REALTOR

EXCLUSIVE RIGHT TO SELL

When listing your home with a Realtor to sell, there are a variety of arrangements you can make. But if you are seriously intent on selling your home within a reasonable time and at the price you are asking, it would pay to consider making an "exclusive right to sell" agreement.

This gives the Realtor the right to his commission if he actually sells your home during the listing period, or if another Realtor sells it, or if you sell it yourself.

Under these conditions, the Realtor will have the added incentive and protection to go all-out in heavily advertising your house and showing it to prospects. He will not be afraid of bringing it to the attention of other Realtors who may have qualified prospects. As a rule, Realtors are willing to cooperate and share the single commission. That gives you the advantage of having several Realtors make a determined effort to sell your home.

Abbot

As far as the proposal being firm, Nielson cautioned that there was considerable work to be done on the matter before anything definite comes of the negotiation process.

"As far as being close to disposing of the property, we are only in terms of having one developer rather than seven," Nielson said, adding, "we have to meet with the president of the firm, do some work with the town and talk with neighbors and present the concept."

The business manager said he hoped to have something definitive by mid-July, which is an adequate timetable in view of some possible town meeting actions being necessary.

In order to develop the life care facility, the town would have to provide a zoning change and the state would have to provide a certificate of need for such a facility.

If zoning changes are required, it is expected they would be presented to the October town meeting for consideration.

Meanwhile, Nielson and academy officials will be discussing the matter further and neighbors of the Abbot-School street property will be kept informed of the developments.

Town Topics

Maternity leaves of absence were approved for the 1978-79 school year for Janis Baron, Loft 6 teacher at Bancroft, and Deborah Kanner, English/Social studied at West Jr. High.

In other action, the administration noted that Louise Batchelder has been transferred from administrative secretary at the Central Office to purchasing coordinator, same place, same pay.

The committee also approved seven federally-funded positions, contingent upon receipt of government funds. They include three school adjustment counselors, two fulltime and one parttime instructional aide, and one teacher or moderate special needs.

Annual Junk Car Drive Begins

The office of the inspector of buildings, on orders of the Board of Selectmen, is beginning the annual drive to rid the community of those vehicles that fall within the definition of junk — registered as well as unregistered motor vehicles, not fit for travel — according to the Andover Zoning By-Law.

Notice will be sent to violators with sufficient time to have junk vehicles moved. Failure to comply results in the town filing for court action against the violator.

This drive will begin on or about May 22, 1978.

Political

wishing to fill the congressional and senate seats.

While Tsongas would not make it official prior to his Thursday press conferences, everything pointed to his announcing for the senate nomination to hopefully contest incumbent Republican U. S. Senator Edward Brooke in the November election.

The two-term congressman said Tuesday that he wanted to have something to say at the meetings on Thursday. As for announcing for the senate Tsongas said, "I don't think I would be meeting in four places in the state to announce my daughter's birthday on Friday."

The Tsongas decision came after Lt. Gov. Thomas P. O'Neill announced over the weekend that he would not seek the U. S. Senate nomination.

Tsongas, who was a county commissioner in Middlesex County prior to his winning the congressional seat from Andover's Paul W. Cronin, in 1974, began a flurry of activity among potential candidates for the Fifth Congressional district seat with his decision.

Among those mentioned as potential candidates was Andover State Rep. Gerald M. Cohen, Cohen said Wednesday he would have to give it a lot of thought before deciding to make a run for Congress, and at the moment had been contemplating a run for re-election.

Saltonstall has represented the southern section of Andover for four years since the senate was redistricted. The Manchester Republican, son of former U. S. Senate Leverett Saltonstall represents North Shore communities in the state senate. The district has traditionally had Republican representation.

Senator William X. Wall of Lawrence represents the remainder of Andover. Until the Tsongas announcement, it was anticipated that Atty. James Shannon of Lawrence would again challenge Wall this year, but Shannon was also mentioned as a possible congressional candidate.

Dr. Nicholas Rizzo, Andover republican has announced his intent to seek the Republican nomination for the Fifth Congressional district against Bill Sawyer of Acton.

Teak Trees

Teak trees are floated to market in Thailand, but a freshly-cut teak tree will not float. When teak trees in northern Thailand reach two feet in diameter, at the age of 150 years, a deep ring is cut around the trunk, Massachusetts Audubon says. The tree stands two years, drying out. It then is floated down rivers to Bangkok, a four-year trip because of dry seasons.

Project Help Seeks Members

Robert G. Butler, president of the Lawrence area Project Help announced the beginning of the annual drive for funds to provide extra budgetary services and equipment to aid patients served by the mental health agencies in the Lawrence area.

Membership committee includes Daniel Gagnon of Andover, chairman; Peter Peck of Shawsheen, assistant chairman; Mrs. Gail Maldon of Andover and Mrs. Hartley Cranton of Haverhill.

From 1953 to 1974, the total death toll from tornadoes was 99 persons in the Bay State.
